Presidents Remarks October, 2008

2008 to date has proven to be an exciting and challenging year. Many changes have come to Tansi that not only will benefit all of us here and now, but will enhance the lives of those who come behind us. These changes are long lasting and will serve to help preserve the life style we all came here to enjoy. The cabins and new maintenance facilities will serve us well for long into the future. The membrane plant will soon join the ranks of completed projects that will improve our overall operations and we envision the membrane plant opening doors to opportunities that none of us as yet fully realize.

Some of these changes did not come easily. Certainly there were some errors made. Regrettably so. But the board acted, based on the best information made available to them at the time. And we learned valuable lessons from those errors.

While there were some of our members who could not see the benefits to be derived from those changes, it can be hoped that their vision will soon clear, and that they too will realize the changes are for the best, for all our members.

2009 and beyond will dictate that further changes must be made. New challenges will surface which must be met with resolution and common sense. A very wise man once told me that challenges are more often than not just opportunities in disguise. If we hold that thought in mind, the challenges we will face become much less ominous.

Above all, WE, as a community, cannot allow the negative voices to dissuade us from following a course that will only help Tansi to improve our physical amenities, to stabilize and yes to increase our property values and compliment our lifestyle.

And we must always remember that Tansi is not just a community of lakes, and golf courses, and recreation centers. Tansi is a community of people, from all walks of life. Yet each has come here with the idea of finding a better way of life. Truly, the most important amenity that Tansi has to offer is the Tansi people.

I look forward to 2009, working with the newly constituted board, management, and with all our residents to meet the challenges and take advantage of the opportunities that we will face. Working together we cannot help but bring Tansi closer to its full potential.

For I believe that truly, the best is yet to come.

Thank You

C. Duke Coyne
